A Fossil-collecting Campaign in New Mexico: George Gaylord Simpson 207

Association Affairs
Photography-in-Science Salon .................................. 212
Reports of Chicago Meeting ...................................... 212
Centennial Issue .................................................. 213

News and Notes .................................................. 214

Technical Papers
Absence of Sickling Phenomenon of the Red Blood Corpuscle Among Brazilian Indians: E. M. da Silva ........................................ 221
Nutritional Requirements of the Rat for Reproduction and Lactation: Albert J. Sica and Leopold R. Cerecedo 222
Fluorescein as an Indicator of Antihistaminic Activity: Inhibition of Histamine-induced Fluorescence in the Skin of Human Subjects: Samuel C. Bukantz and Gustave J. Dammin 224

Effect of Hormone on Root Formation in Artocarpus communis: Thomas J. Musik .................................................. 225
The Inhibition of Virus Increase by Malachite Green: William N. Takahashi .................................................. 226

In the Laboratory
An Extension of the Isotope Dilution Method: Konrad Bloch and H. S. Anker .................................................. 228
Assay of Bacitracin in Body Fluids: Glenn C. Bond and Mary Ann Nook .................................................. 228
An Apparatus to Facilitate Intravenous Injections in the Mouse: James J. Nickson and Sam S. Barkulis 229
A Simple Self-leveling Drinking Well for Laboratory Animals: David Lehr .................................................. 230

Book Reviews
Reading and visual fatigue: Leonard Carmichael and Walter F. Dearborn. Reviewed by Harold E. Burtt .................................................. 231

Scientific Book Register .................................................. 232

(Cover photo by E. H. Colbert, American Museum of Natural History.)
Science 107 (2774), 207-232.