

that has conscious respect for ascertainable facts of human nature.

The effect of the ancient misunderstanding between science and religion could not be slight. In early Greek thought what we now call science was all one with what we now call philosophy and with the intellectual side of religion. The sciences have been completely segregated from other intellectual interests, in fact, scarcely more than a century. No doubt science and religion have both gained by the separation, but it may reasonably be asked whether their going apart, is not, after all, a merely temporary expedient to enable the intellect to regain its unity upon a higher plane.

SCIENTIFIC JOURNALS AND ARTICLES.

THE Journal of the Boston Society of Medical Sciences for April opens with an abstract of the 'Histology of Acute Pneumonia,' by Joseph H. Pratt, giving a summary of the examination of fifty cases. G. B. Magrath has a preliminary study of 'The Relation of Age, Physique, and Preliminary Training to Class Rank in Pathology,' training not unnaturally seeming to have the most marked bearing on scholarship. F. P. Denny presents a 'Report on the Examination for Diphtheria Bacilli of Cultures from Four Hundred and Seventy-five Individuals,' an important conclusion being that while such bacilli are rarely present in healthy persons, a large number may be infected by healthy individuals who do have the bacilli in their throats. J. H. Wright describes 'A Case of Multiple Myeloma,' and Franklin Dexter has some 'Additional Observations on the Morphology of the Digestive Tract of the Cat,' while Wm. Hallock Park gives the results of 'A Few Experiments upon the Effect of Low Temperatures and Freezing on Typhoid Bacilli,' showing that they possess great powers of endurance and that infection may be caused in spring by fecal material thrown out in winter. The final paper, by E. W. Taylor, describes a case of 'Diffuse Degeneration of the Spinal Cord.'

THE Popular Science Monthly, established in 1872 by Messrs. D. Appleton & Co. and Dr. E. L. Youmans, will hereafter be published by Messrs. McClure, Phillips and Company and edited by Professor J. McKeen Cattell. The table of contents for June is as follows:
