

WILLIAM MCKINLEY, twenty-fifth President of the United States, universally beloved and honored by a Nation whose greatness he maintained and advanced, died on September 14, 1901.

