COVER The reflector of this radio-radar telescope, located in the hilly terrain south of Arecibo, Puerto Rico, is 1000 feet in diameter and is suspended in a natural bowl. The triangular structure, held by cables from concrete towers, supports and positions the antenna feed that illuminates the reflector and steers the beam through a 40-degree cone centered overhead. See page 26.

The American Association for the Advancement of Science was founded in 1848 and incorporated in 1874. Its objects are to further the work of scientists, to facilitate cooperation among them, to improve the effectiveness of science in the promotion of human welfare, and to increase public understanding and appreciation of the importance and promise of the method of science in human progress.
