American Association for the Advancement of Science was founded in and incorporated in 1874. Its objects are to foster the work of scientists, to facilitate cooperation among them, to improve the effectiveness of science in the promotion of human welfare, and to increase public understanding and appreciation of the importance and promise of the ends of science in human progress. COVER

The setting sun with a portion of the 22-degree halo and a V-shaped arc which touches it at the top. The arc was assumed to be the upper tangent arc until careful comparison with computer simulations revealed it to be an example of the Parry Arc. See page 360. [R. G. Greenler, University of Wisconsin–Milwaukee]
