■ The American Association for the Advancement of Science was founded in 1848 and incorporated in 1874. Its objects are to further the work of scientists, to facilitate cooperation among them, to foster scientific freedom and responsibility, to improve the effectiveness of science in the promotion of human welfare, and to increase public understanding and appreciation of the importance and promise of the methods of science in human progress.

COVER Praying mantis, Tenodera aridifolia sinensis. The prominent eyes of the mantis reflect its striking visually mediated behaviors, especially prey capture. While mantises, in general, are diurnally active, many are also active at night when hearing may play a dominant role in their natural history. See page 727. [David D. Yager, Division of Biological Sciences, Cornell University, Ithaca, NY 14853]
