The American Association for the Advancement of Science was founded in 1848 and incorporated in 1874. Its objects are to further the work of scientists, to facilitate cooperation among them, to foster scientific freedom and responsibility, to improve the effectiveness of science in the promotion of human welfare, and to increase public understanding and appreciation of the importance and promise of the methods of science in human progress.
Pseudocolor digitized computer image of fluorescence intensity distribution in human fibroblasts stained with carboxyfluorescein diacetate. Fluorescence in a cell can be bleached with a laser and intercellular communication assayed by rapidly and repeatedly measuring the redistribution of carboxyfluorescein in bleached and unbleached cells. Addition of tumor promoting agents can block the intercellular communication. See page 525. [Margaret H. Wade, Meridian Instruments, Inc., Okemos, Michigan, and James E.
