The American Association for the Advancement of Science was founded in 1848 and incorporated in 1874. Its objects are to further the work of scientists, to facilitate cooperation among them, to foster scientific freedom and responsibility, to improve the effectiveness of science in promoting public understanding and appreciation of the importance and promise of the methods of science in human progress.
A fragment of lunar cordierite-spinel troctolite from the Apollo 15 mission. Two spinel crystals (reddish brown) and an adjacent grain of cordierite (lavender pink, upper left) are included in twinned plagioclase feldspar (blue and yellow). The cracked textures, offset twin lamellae, and weblike pattern (lavender pink and yellow) of finely crushed feldspar are shock features. (False-color photomicrograph taken in partially cross-polarized light with gypsum accessory plate; long edge of field is 0.53 millimeter.) See page 925. [Photomicrograph by Ursula B. Marvin]
