The American Association for the Advancement of Science was founded in 1848 and incorporated in 1874. Its objects are to further the work of scientists, to facilitate cooperation among them, to foster scientific freedom and responsibility, to improve the effectiveness of science in the promotion of human welfare, and to increase public understanding and appreciation of the importance and promise of the methods of science in human progress.
Staining of the polar distribution of a viral envelope glycoprotein in a midgut columnar epithelial cell. Paraffin sections of the caterpillar, Trichoplusia ni, infected with a baculovirus were immunostained with a monoclonal antibody reactive with the glycoprotein, a peroxidase conjugate and diaminobenzidine as color substrate.
