The American Association for the Advancement of Science was founded in 1848 and incorporated in 1874. Its objects are to further the work of scientists, to facilitate cooperation among them, to foster scientific freedom and responsibility, to improve the effectiveness of science in the promotion of human welfare, and to increase public understanding and appreciation of the importance and promise of the methods of science in human progress.
The golden monkey Ceropithecus mitis kandti, a guenon of a rare subspecies that inhabits high-altitude forest in the area around the Virunga volcanoes of east central Africa. Its distribution coincides with that of the endangered mountain gorilla. The survival of both primates depends on the conservation of this relic habitat.
