The American Association for the Advancement of Science was founded in 1848 and incorporated in 1874. Its objects are to further the work of scientists, to facilitate cooperation among them, to foster scientific freedom and responsibility, to improve the effectiveness of science in the promotion of human welfare, and to increase public understanding and appreciation of the importance and promise of the methods of science in human progress.
Covariance map of the Coulomb explosions in nitrous oxide after ionization by an intense picosecond laser. The covariance mapping technique gives directly the correlations between the momenta of the various fragment ions and thereby provides detailed information on the structure and fragmentation dynamics of the parent molecule. See page 1029. [Data acquisition and visualization algorithm by L. J. Frasinski, University of Reading, United Kingdom]
