- The American Association for the Advancement of Science was founded in 1848 and incorporated in 1874. Its objectives are to further the work of scientists, to facilitate cooperation among them, to foster scientific freedom and responsibility, to improve the effectiveness of science in promoting the promotion of human welfare, to advance education in science, and to increase public understanding and appreciation of the importance and promise of the methods of science in human progress.
COVER  Plant lectins, such as the one isolated from the red-flowered Erythrina corallodendron tree, agglutinate erythrocytes and serve as a paradigm for protein-carbohydrate interactions at cell surfaces. The unusual quaternary structure of the E. corallodendron lectin demonstrates the extreme effect of glycosylation on protein assembly. See page 862.
