JOHNS HOPKINS
BLOOMBERG
SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH

W. Harry Feinstone Department of Molecular Microbiology and Immunology
Alfred and Jill Sommer Professor and Chair

The Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health invites applications for Professor and Chair of the Department of Molecular Microbiology and Immunology. The successful applicant will have an outstanding record of academic and research accomplishment and demonstrated leadership and administrative abilities.

The mission of the Department is to advance understanding of basic biological processes underlying the major infectious diseases affecting public health. To combat global health threats caused by parasites (malaria), bacteria (tuberculosis) and viruses (AIDS), faculty and students conduct their studies in laboratories, in the field and in clinics. The Department has 50 full-time faculty, 100 doctoral and master's students and a diverse research program. The Bloomberg School of Public Health has ten departments and more than 500 full-time faculty and 2,000 graduate-level students. The School is located on the Johns Hopkins University East Baltimore medical campus, a collaborative and highly interactive environment with a superb research infrastructure.

The Johns Hopkins University is committed to recruiting, supporting and fostering a diverse community of outstanding faculty, staff and students. Women and under-represented minority candidates are particularly encouraged to apply. EEO/AA.

Review of candidates will begin in July 2013. Applications should include a Curriculum Vitae and statement of research interest and vision of leadership. Submit to:
