Increasing anthropogenic nitrogen in the North Pacific Ocean I.-N. Kim et al.

1106 COGNITIVE PSYCHOLOGY
Forgetting the presidents H. L. Roediger III and K. A. DeSoto

1107 MITOCHONDRIA
Cell cycle–dependent regulation of mitochondrial preprotein translocase A. B. Harbauer et al.

ON THE COVER

A 239-gram piece of NWA 7034, or “Black Beauty,” a 4.4-billion-year-old meteorite from Mars. The rock, valued at more than $10,000 per gram, is both the oldest martian meteorite and the first one made of pieces that were once eroded by wind or water. One of more than a dozen pieces that fell into the Sahara desert, this sample was the first to be recognized as martian. See page 1044.
