Deuterated Gases

Deuterium Chloride (DCI)

Deuterium Fluoride (DF)

Deuterium Sulfide (D₂S)

Minimum isotopic purity, 98.0%

In 1960, we started producing Deuterium (D₂) for our customers. Our work with heavy hydrogen has led us to introduce the 3 deuterium compounds listed above. All of these gases, as well as D₂, are now in stock, for prompt shipment. Please mail coupon for informal price list.

Possible Applications. Deuterium Chloride, Deuterium Fluoride and Deuterium Sulfide are useful in the study of reaction mechanisms and in tracer and spectroscopic studies.

Have You Any Ideas? We will be interested in hearing about any additional uses that may occur to our readers. Our Research Department is especially interested in producing any gas where Deuterium is substituted for hydrogen. If you can use any deuterated gas other than those listed, please contact us, advising approximate quantity required. If it is at all possible, we will be glad to produce your special requirements.

Unique Catalog. If you have even the most remote thought of using any compressed gas in your laboratory, we hope you'll send for our new Gas Catalog No. 25. It is the only catalog of its kind, listing almost any gas that might be of laboratory use, gas mixtures, and the most complete selection of customer designed regulators, valves, flowmeters and other gas handling equipment. All available from 5 plants, across the country. It's free, so please mail the coupon.

Please send Price Sheet on Deuterated Gases Catalog No. 25
