The Faculty of Biology at the Georg-August-University Göttingen will appoint at the Albrecht-von-Haller-Institute for Plant Sciences the position of:

Juniorprofessorship (W1) for Microbial Cell Biology

We invite applications from young scientists who wish to lead an independent junior group addressing research goals within the fields of cell biology of eukaryotic microorganisms including genetics, molecular biology and/or biochemistry. We welcome creative and imaginative proposals from either biologists or biochemists with an excellent PhD and/or postdoctoral research record. The position holder is expected to participate in collaborative research efforts of the university and to show interest in academic teaching. Appointments will be made for three years with the option of a further three year period of funding provided a positive evaluation. Teaching loads involve 4 SWS in the first and 5 SWS in the second funding period.

Appointment will be made according to the laws of Lower Saxony (Niedersächsisches Hochschulgesetz, Nds. GVBl. 5/2007, page 69). Past appointments at German universities should not exceed 6 years. The Georg-August-University Göttingen as a Public Law Foundation has the right of appointment. Further details can be found under (<http://www.unigoettingen.de/de/104108.html>) or are given on request.

Applications of scientists from foreign countries are explicitly encouraged. Under certain circumstances part-time employment is possible. The University aims to increase the number of female staff employed and expressly requests applications from qualified women. Disabled persons will be considered preferentially in the case of equal aptitude.

Written applications including a curriculum vitae, a list of publications and a summarised research perspective should be submitted to the faculty no later than six weeks after the posting of the position. Dean of the Faculty of Biology, Untere Karspüle 1a, 37073 Göttingen, Germany.
