IOWA STATE UNIVERSITY

Tenure-Track Faculty Position in Comparative Animal Physiology

The Department of Ecology, Evolution & Organismal Biology (EEOB) in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at Iowa State University seeks a comparative animal physiologist specializing in the evolution and ecology of animal physiology. The ideal candidate will have an integrative physiology research program using any mixture of classic and modern tools. The successful candidate is expected to advance excellence in comparative functional biology at ISU by establishing a major, externally-funded research program and contributing to undergraduate and graduate education, including teaching in human and comparative physiology. This is a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor, with a tenure-home appointment in EEOB (100%). Candidates must hold a Ph.D. by the time of appointment.

All applications must be submitted electronically at <https://isu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/IowaStateJobs> (job #R160). Please be prepared to attach a letter of application, including concise teaching and research statements, a curriculum vitae, and the names and contact information of three referees. The position will remain open until filled. Full consideration will be given to applications received by 3 September 2019. Iowa State University is an EO/AA employer. For additional information please email physiol@iastate.edu.

Iowa State University is an EO/AA Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, or protected Vets status. Iowa State University is an AAU-member comprehensive, land grant, Carnegie Doctoral/Research Extensive University with an enrollment of 35,000 students. The university is located in Ames, IA, one of the nation's most highly rated metropolitan areas of its size (<http://www.iastate.edu/about/ames.php>) and is only 35 miles north of Des Moines. ISU is committed to achieving inclusive excellence through a diverse workforce and is dedicated to supporting work-life balance through an array of flexible policies.
