

LOOK DEEPER

Decoding disease.

Just another day at the beach.

Standing on the shores of a country and a continent, UC San Diego scientists also find themselves standing on the precipice of changing the world. They're studying how to "update" mosquitos with a gene that prevents the spread of malaria. Imagine that. At the Tata Institute for Genetics and Society, we already have.

UC San Diego

lookdeeper.ucsd.edu